The Passage

On this modern container vessel owned by a German company with nice cabins you will travel from Belgium to Ireland with a short berth in the Belgian port Zeebrugge, well-known for its ferry terminals.

Enjoy the fresh sea air with the fascinating view to the wide Atlantic Ocean. In sunshine the water in the English channel seems to be bottle-green, whereas you have the impression of "king-blue" in the Atlantic Ocean.

Also at night the English channel can be an interesting experience with a little similarity to fireworks - gleaming light buoys and the green, red and white lights of the other ships.

Ireland offers you a variety of different views, romantic rivers, old castles and big sappy meadows.
